Listen to Original Music Inspired by Jasmine Hill, House to be Relocated

Jasmine Hill, located on the grounds of the Green Meadows Golf Club, was listed on Historic Augusta's Endangered Properties List for 2009. A rare example of a mid-19th Century suburban home in Richmond County, it was constructed in the early 1860s for George Schley (1809-1866). The house has remained vacant since Historic Augusta shined the spotlight on this significantly threatened historic resource, which is off Richmond Hill Road. Following the Schley's ownership, it was the long-time home of the family of William Henry Talbot Walker, Jr. (1856-1948). Recently, Historic Augusta staff found an original piece of sheet music inspired by the house and its location high atop the rolling hills overlooking the Savannah River Valley. The Jasmine Hill Waltz, written and self-published by Mr. Walker's wife, Carolyn Fowle Walker (1860-1933), is a ragtimey energetic composition that likely filled the halls of the house during many social events. To celebrate Preservation Month and the significance of this rare architectural gem, our new Programs and Marketing Director Robyn Macey played and recorded the piece for the delight of our members. Jasmine Hill has been purchased by a descendant of the Schley Family who intends to relocate the house to family property in Oconee County near Athens. Historic Augusta is looking forward to working with the owners to successfully prepare the house for its move and help document this rare feat once it is underway. To listen to the

The 1918 Pandemic during Wilson's Time as President

The Pandemic of 1918 known as the "Spanish Flu" had many similarities to what we are experiencing today with COVID-19. This video is based on an article by Dr. Lee Ann Caldwell written in 2014 for Augusta Magazine during the one hundredth anniversary year of the beginning of World War I in Europe. Listen to Ann Macey as she speaks of the trials and tribulations of the time in Augusta and around the world when Woodrow Wilson was President of the United States, and the last pandemic raged.
